QUALITY

QUALITY ASSURANCE

Label Innovation has established a well-respected name as the solutions provider in the stringent medical grade standards arena. We are committed to leading in the marketplace by providing superior quality converting services and products through developing an integrated partner relationship with both our customers and suppliers.

Label Innovation is ISO 9001–2015 certified and registered under the Controlled Goods Program of Canada. We maintain the highest standards in safety and industrial hygiene practices.

At Label Innovation quality is paramount, both to us and to our customers. That's why we've taken a number of steps to ensure that your customized labels or medical device components are completed to the highest standards:

Label Innovation is audited to FDA standards on a regular basis by one of our largest customers, a manufacturer of medical devices. Our quality management system is audited annually by SGS International Certification Services.

We understand the importance of adhering to FDA regulations for the safety of the customer and end user. We have a Quality Management System (QMS) that monitor all major product lines.

New product development goes through a series of stages to ensure Label Innovation understands your project requirements, foresees any potential process failures and completes any necessary testing.

For help with your next customized labels or disposable medical devices project, contact us.
